

Telemedicine Abortion Bans

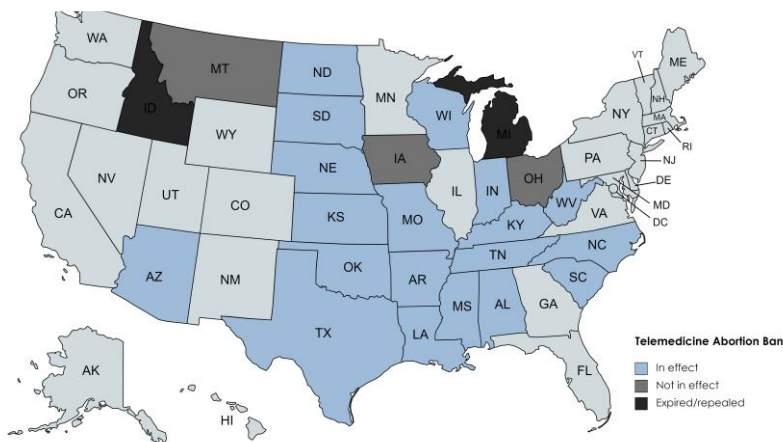

Updated: May 28, 2021

"Telemedicine abortions" are chemical abortions done by a video conferencing system where the abortionist is located at one location and uses a closed circuit TV to talk over a computer video screen with a woman who is at another location. The chemicals are dispensed by a remote control which opens a drawer near the woman. She removes the pills herself. The abortionist never sees the woman in person. They're never actually in the same room.

Twenty-four (24) states have enacted laws requiring abortionists to be physically present in the same room as the woman when administering a chemical abortion. Of those enacted laws, 19 laws are in effect; 3 are not in effect (Iowa*, Ohio*, and Montana); 2 have been repealed/expired (Idaho and Michigan).
