Web Cam Abortion Bans

Updated: August 27, 2013

"Web-cam abortions" are chemical abortions done by a video conferencing system where the abortionist is located at one location and uses a closed circuit TV to talk over a computer video screen with a woman who is at another location. The chemicals are dispensed by a remote control which opens a drawer near the woman. She removes the pills herself. The abortionist never sees the woman in person. They're never actually in the same room.

Sixteen (16) states have enacted laws requiring abortionist to be physically present in the same room as the woman when administering a chemical abortion.
